

Anna Gutkowska, Class of 2005

Heritage Planner, ERA Architects Inc.

Life does not have a linear path.
Allow yourself to explore opportunities beyond what you think is expected of you.

I am an emerging urban planning professional specializing in heritage planning. Heritage planning is a sector of urban planning that focuses on the cultural heritage value of places, including buildings and landscapes, ensuring that this value is conserved as our communities evolve. My work combines my passions for history and urban planning, requiring thorough research, analysis, and forming well-founded professional opinions.

My time at SJCS instilled in me the importance of community-driven work and nurtured the confidence I have in myself and my ability to stand by my opinions.
